dwar, to an humble office. I held that office for me threen mouths, during which time it was a price and my ardent desire to discharge my sites fathbully and hone-sity. I did suppose, as had a right to do, that I was selected for this die not alone for my political standing, but in just at least on account of my capacity to discharge the duties portaining to it. But for some cours, unknown to me, of which I had no netice, and sieldly incomprehensible to my friends, Mr. Buckman has removed me from that position.

It is a fillie remarkable that Davidson's announcement of his close confinement by a return of the disease contracted in the campaign of 1856, should be carried down to the district by himself, should be carried down to the district by himself, and distributed by his own hand. This was the IRASOLE'S NEW DANCE should be carried down to the district of binnest, and distributed by his own hand. This was the case, as we fearn, at Monmouth on Monday last. He spent the forenoon in circulating his address, and in the afternoon repeated it vertaint to about so hundred persons who assembled to hear him-Wait a terrible disease that campaign sickness of

are been guilty of the indiscretion of permit

tem the effects of which he is still suffering, must have a wonderfully damaging effect upon the memory. Davidson forgets his nounerous trips to Washington; how he swore allegiance to Buchanan and Lecompton on each occasion; how he would once home and be for Buchanan in one crowd and for Douglas in another; how he signed calls for Buchanan and Lecompton meetings, and privately assisted in getting up Douglas demonstrations—all this Davidson has no recollection of and of course is unable to account for the loss of his head.

Another effect of the disease is to make Da-rison believe that every body else is just as forgetful as himself. Hence, after his repeated fruitess altempts to "carry water upon both fruitess attempts to "carry water upon both, spendern", after privately piedging himself to led, Bachanan and Douglas, Lecompton and sui-lecompton—after having neglected or given up to his deputies for nearly six months the business of bis office, in his earnest eff.ris to retain the Marshalship—he has the hardi-head to held bisselfer.

We quote from his address:

I take you to any through the ballot-box, whether I was worthy of the humble position that I have coupied; whether I have, regardless of political considerations, discharged my duty as public officer? If have, and you by your youse shall express your undiminished confiderations.

speble officer? If I have, and you by your vois shall express your undiminished confidence in me positically and personally, then, I can source you, that such a verdict at your hands would remove what stain may be supposed to remove the mark for the waston exercise of Excendire power.

No, no, Jimmy Davidson, that dodge won't win fan have yet many purifications to undergo before you can hope to wear the Martyr's Crown. That "Campaign disease" must mortify your mambers and chasten your apirit far more throughly than it has done yet before you can set up in the Martyr business. You're a charlata, a bumbag, a cheat Jimmy Davidson, and you know it. Toe lest your place because you tried to be investings at once, and did not succeed in being either. Do you remember that stat Lecompton Buchanaa meeting held in this city, Jimmy Pavidson And do you remember that you signed the call for it, and declared that if you had a shouly who wouldn't sign it without a word, you wouldn't sign it without a word, you wouldn't sign it without a word, you would may show ouldn't sign it without a word, you wouldn't sign it without a word, you seed the call for it, and declared that if you had a shouly who wouldn't sign it without a word, you wouldn't sign it without a word, you seed the call for it, and declared that if you had a should be supplied to the proposed by the grappling rope to a tree in his you. He immediately hauled the zalloon down, and found the youngest child swisep in the bottom of the beaket, and the sidest carefully watching over her little brother.

> Well, four of these joint debates have come brought nearer five to one; at Freeport, Lincoln brought nearer five to one—the whole number being fifteen thousand; at Jonesboro, where it is conceded the Republicans have no chance, Douglas brought only man for man ground that Lincoln's friends were in a deci-ded majority—the whole number being some-thing over twelve thousand. And so it will be at Galesburg, Quincy and Alton. Either the Doughasites don't care much about public debates, or they are numerically of little im-portance at the points selected by Douglas himself for the joint discussions.

The Character of Osceola in Question.
[Correspondence of the N. Y. Courier and Roquirer.]

Wassingeron, Sept. 18.
Quarter-master General Jessup has re-introduced himself to the newspaper world by an angry defente, in the Washington Stor, of the imanner in which he obtained possession of the Seminolachief, Osceola, as a prisoner of war. Osceola had come to the camp of Gen. Jessup, under a promise of protection, to treat. The General says that the true name of his captive was Powell, that he was a spy and a murderer, and had forfeited his life by numerous violations of the usages of war. The acrimonious note of Gen. Jessup in which this information is conveyed, is levelled at Hon. John S. Pendleton, of Va., who, in the course of a recent law argument, took occasion to any:

was shandoned in consequence. Notwithstanding this fast, the invantor was so confident of success that he gave the order to put the plows to work in this aimost impervious soil. After a little delay in regalating them to this brick-like surface, the angine moved ferward, when a six furrows were turned side by side, in the most westmandike manner. The excitement of the crowd was beyond costrol, and their shoats and wild have beened far aver the prairie, as beneath the smiling autumn sun lay the area furrows turned by stam on the broad prairies of the mighty West.

The goal was won. Steam had conquered the face of nature, and the steam plow had become a fact; it was working over the rich, relling prairies of "Egyps," and turning up its wealth of minimum elements for the growth of cersal and pomonal products—self moving, and containing as power unequalled to turn up the lower strata of soil, so rich in poicula, in phosphates, in silication of the prairie.

The post was wonded to turn up the lower strata of soil, so rich in poicula, the products—self moving, and containing as power unequalled to turn up the lower strata of soil, so rich in poicula, the products—self moving, and containing as power unequalled to turn up the lower strata of soil, so rich in poicula, the products—self moving masses like a line of silver wove in the gray setting of the prairie. Amides the excitement the invastor remained calus; it was seough for him to hear the glad shouts of rictory which resi the air; for this he had tolled; for this his not seed of the prairie. The trovod demanded a speech from the invasitor point of the prairie, and the prairie and the prairie, and the prairie, and the prairie and the prairie and the prairie and th

The Detroit Tribune of Tuesday evening 1837;

A brakesman, who came upon last evening's train states positively that it landed on the farm of Joseph Ainks, Esq., Municipal Councillor, for the township of Tilisary West, four miles west of Baptiste Creek, and about thirty miles west of Baptiste Creek, and about thirty miles west of Baptiste Creek, and about thirty miles from Windoor. He further states that Mr. M. stripped it on Subday and took the Wile of which it was wholly made into his house. The balloop was a new one, this having been the first time if was need. A cost searly $1,000, and was made and owned by both the gentlemen who first ascended. The same authority that confirms the descend of the halloon, states that it had three large rents in different parts of its surface, indicating that it must have descended with some violence. The balloon has been visited, and so dee was near oris it. The station master at Baptiste Creek now reports that a man was seen in the balloon as it came down—a ray; important fact trees no. We regard this as wholly improbable. He further states that the balloon was tumbing over and over as it came to the ground, and tinal: If full our sas it came to the ground, and tinal: If full on staty this accretion is a book.

Exaggerated accounts were given of the state of popular feeling at New Haven and in the country around, concerning the persons arrescheaper than horse power. sons were under arrest: Andy Stewart, Payton Newman, Henry And, William Brumley, Larkin Brumley, Jeff. Brumley, and during the day, Frederick Bingaman was added to the number—all residents of this county except Stewart, whose father resides in White or Hamilton county.

The arrests were all made upon stitements made by Stewart, who pretended to make a confession, in which he implicated the others named, together with one McBride, an Irishman, who has not yet been strested.

On the Monday mentioned it was apprehended that the popular excitement was so great that On the Monday mentioned it was apprehence that the popular excitement was a great this the prisopers were in danger of being taken on and hung by the mbb, without eved a hearing And we regret to fearn that old men, professer Christians, and even preachers of the gospel from whom better counsels should be expected advised the most violent proceedings, so certail did help seem that all the persons are used were surely guilty. The voice of law and order a length was heard, milder counsels prevailed, and the most violent were at length willing to heat the wridence.

The court of inquiry was organized, consisting of Esquire Pervis, D. T. Hazen, Esq., and Charles Vinson, Esq., and on Tuesday the examination was commenced. Stewart made his statement, pratending to give all the details of the horrible crime, and fully implicating all the persons named, except Mr. Jeff. Brumley, who was promptly and honorably discharged. The statements of Stewart were followed by the pre-tended confession of Newman, in which he implicated the same persons named by Stewart, plicated the same persons named by Stewart except that he could not identify with certainty Larkin Brumley.

Stewart and Newman had been kept apart so nesses for four of the prisoners, William a ments, and the strong correlorating circum stances which they mentioned to sustain their recollection as to time, satisfied the court and arouted growd in attendance, that the four per sons hast mentioned were innocent, and that (Stewart and Newman had sworn to what was false, at ionat as to them.

Newman said that all he had stated on his former examination was false—that he was induced to make the state ments from fear—that during the time he had been in custody, some persons who were un threatened to hang or drown him unless made disclosures concerning the murder, and save his life, he made these pretended disc sure, he made these pretended disclosures, but that he was innocent of any participation in the crime himself, and have nothing whatever in regard to it. Stewart still adhered with great concensa to his former statements, toogtradiction himself.

sider upon their decision, Stewart intimated a desire to make a new confession privately to the Court. The opportunity was given him, and it is understood that he still implicated Newman, Barguiana inou MeBride, and some others whose names are for the present withheld from the public, but wholly stonerated all the other parties named. William and Larkin Brumley and Henry And were accordingly discharged from essitody, and Stewart, Newman and Bingaman committed to iail to await the action of the

It is understood that Stewart was induced to make his first disclosures under a fear of being hung, as the rope was placed around his neck, and ne was threatened with instant death if he did not confess his guilt and give the names of his accomplices; this led to the accusation of at least three isnocent men, and yet upon the hare statements of such a fiend as Newwit confessed himself to be, many of our citizens were willing to set, and to take the lives of all the persons accused, without a frial. We shudder to think of the narrow escape of those three in nocent men from an awful death at the hands of an inturiated mob.

It beats the spiritual manifestation entirely out of sight. Household chattels me or half a dozen bondmen. How these poor fel lows manage to elude the vigilance of masters and police is a mystery; for our Washington police, though not so efficient in guarding the white people of Washington from assault and robbery, have a prodigious amount of zeal it arresting free negroes and slaves who violate the laws. Indeed I have heard of one or two constables who, when bosiness runs low, per suade a few negroes into the groggeries with which Washington abounds, get them drunk and then take them before a magistrate, where they are fined five or ten dollars, the constables getting half the money.
